

Abstract Of The Disclosure

An image recording system, particularly for use in a motor vehicle, and a method for producing an image recording system are provided. The image recording system includes an image sensor, an optical unit, a housing and fastening arrangement for fixing the image 5 sensor in position relative to the housing, permit axial alignment of the main axis of the image sensor and the main axis of the optical unit relative to each other.